

This picture shows two laundresses, one at work the other not able to, because her hands are cracked and sore-she has been using soap containing too much alkali. Read Prof. Leeds's report.

Gentlemen:-The sample of "Ivony" Soap which you sent to me for analysis has been received, and you will find analysis herewith. As a result, the "IVORY" Soap while strongly cleansing, leaves the skin soft and pleasant to the touch instead of harsh, uncomfortable, and liable to chap, as results from the use of many common laundry soaps, in which the ratio of uncombined to combined alkali is large. The percentage of uncombined fat in the "Ivory" is very small, hence the lather is clean, white and abundant, with entire absence of oil or grease. There are no injurious substances.

The above considerations show the "Ivory" to be a pure soap and excellent for laundry use.

Very Respectfully Yours, LABORATORY OF CHEMISTRY, STEVENS INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY, HOBOKEN, N. J.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

ALL ABOUT RATS.

The Brown and the Black, and Their Enmity to One Another. The black and brown rats are particularly deserving of notice, and are the most widely distributed over the world. It is not known where or how they were introduced into Europe first, but it must have been in recent times, as the ancients did not know them. They both appear to be natives of the found its way to Europe in the beginning of the eighteenth century, and reached Britain and the western countries of Europe about the middle of that epoch. The Jacobites of Britain had the notion that they came with the house of Hanover, as they appeared

The black rat is nearly seven inches long and the brown grows to ten inches, with a tail eight inches long. Both species are extremely prolific, producing from ton to fourteen at a birth. When they are pressed by hunger they do not hesitate to devour the weaker of their kind.

The rat's never-failing appetite is especially useful in devouring animal and vegetable substances, the putre-faction of which would otherwise be productive of pestilence. It is said that the visits of the plague to West-

"I would not go back to America again with all the worries of house keeping for the world," I heard a lady say, while her companion, fresh from the worries of American housekeeping, was ready to take them again, and would not stay here for all the world. And so opinions differ. But of the two ern Europe and Britain have ceased I think the Parisian housekeeper has from the time when rats became pientithe best or it, with better servants, smaller wages, and so many trouble-some things done outside no washing or ironing, for this is done by the blanchisseuse, and no bread-making, for the bakers furnish all that, and of an excelent kind, too, although so hard that more than Gladstone's "thirtythree" chews are necessary to it mastication-fifty, at least, are req-
